Unit Rationale
This practicum provides opportunity for the further integration of ministry theory and practice. Students will continue to engage in supervised practical experience in various ministry contexts. This unit consequently offers opportunity for observation, reflection, evaluation and ministry practice.

The reflective process is vital to the practicum experience and involves faculty, supervisor, and peers. It is designed to lead students to an integration of personal and professional identity, and academic and practical proficiency. The process also develops the student’s ability to articulate faith within life experiences and the changing dynamics of today’s world.

Each student will be supervised by a suitably qualified and approved supervisor. On-campus workshop/tutorial sessions and responsibilities supplement off-campus field education. Specific ministry contexts and skills will be developed within the Learning Agreements that each student, in consultation with the practicum supervisor, submits.

The Practicums are offered to ensure that students have continued involvement to a specific ministry context or are able to choose a different ministry context.

Contribution to Course Outcomes:
Practicums enable students to synthesise their learning in a holistic way. Personal as well as professional learning will be integrated, while simultaneously an area of ministry involvement will be practised. Practicum units integrate with coursework units in the application of their studies to supervised ministry. Students will observe and demonstrate ministry and mission in the context of biblically informed and theologically applied study.

Learning Outcomes:
On completion of this unit, students will have provided evidence that they have:

1. Researched and continued critical reflect on ministry issues relating to a ministry setting or context;
2. Further examined relationships between the theoretical knowledge acquired and practical applications in ministry;
3. Evaluated personal ministry strengths and weaknesses;
4. Developed further their gifts, resources and skills for effective ministry by working with others in a professional ministry capacity;
5. Illustrated the value of ongoing supervision and professional development including the presentation of well written reflections related to the practice of ministry;
6. Led ministry in a specific ministry setting;
7. Written at an appropriate tertiary standard (with special attention to correct grammar, punctuation, spelling, vocabulary, usage, sentence structure, logical relations, style, referencing and presentation).
