The Witherspoon Fellowship
Reimagining Leadership
The Millis Institute | Brisbane | June 26-27 2015

The Witherspoon Fellowship is a two-day gathering for emerging leaders in Brisbane, led by the Millis Institute Director, Dr Ryan Messmore and Christian Heritage College President, Dr Darren Iselin.
John Witherspoon has been dubbed ‘the man who shaped the men who shaped America’. In 1768 he became president of the liberal arts university now known as Princeton. Witherspoon trained many emerging leaders in history, theology, and eloquence, and all students took his unit in moral philosophy.

Those students would go on to fill many positions of influence, including:

1 President (J. Madison)
1 Vice President
3 Supreme Court justices
12 state governors
13 university presidents
21 senators
29 congressmen
100+ clergy

Witherspoon’s legacy inspires us to provide a modern-day fellowship of emerging leaders with the same kind of intentional and personal preparation. The Witherspoon Fellowship aims to ‘shape the leaders who will shape Australia…and the world’.

The goal is to form a fellowship of students looking for a different approach to leadership. Inspired by the story of John Witherspoon, this program provides students a grounding in the liberal arts that prepares them to engage pressing questions of our day. Through discussing works from Socrates to C S Lewis, young leaders engage foundational truths about culture, faith and human flourishing and apply those insights to contemporary issues.

During the gathering, attendees participate in formative (and fun) activities, including: discussion-based seminars focused on the great minds and great ideas of western civilisation; public-speaking and debate training; interaction with established leaders about discerning one’s calling; and ballroom dancing lessons. Tuition for the two-day gathering is $60 (which covers all sessions and food).

The Witherspoon Fellowship advances the goals of the newly launched Millis Institute, including the cultivation of a Christian worldview, a sense of calling, and critical thinking and communication skills that improve leadership.
